Your food can introduce deadly diseases like African swine fever and foot-and-mouth disease to Australia's livestock.

When you're working on the land or out enjoying nature:

- ✓ Put all leftover food in a secure bin or take it home.
- ✗ Never bury food or leave it for animals to eat.

Why it matters:

Feral pigs eating your leftover food could introduce African swine fever or foot-and-mouth disease to Australia's livestock and devastate our regional communities.

See sick or dead feral pigs?

Help stop emergency diseases in their tracks! If you spot multiple feral pigs that are sick or have died unexpectedly, please call the Emergency Animal Disease hotline: 1800 675 888
